Occupation Research Assistant, SFU, Teaching
Assistant, Faculty of Education

Background and Contribution

Shyanne is aware of Options through family and friends and is inspired by the wide array of services that are provided through Options. She is of Métis heritage and would bring her experience and First Nation Studies to the Board. Shyanne has volunteered with elementary school children, the SFU Archaeology Museum and SFU Zooarchaeology Lab.

Shyanne lives in New Westminster but has strong ties to Surrey through school, family and friends. She has a Bachelor of Environment Degree with studies in Archaeology and First Nation Studies. Shyanne was at one point enrolled in a Bachelor of Social Work Degree program at UBC, Kelowna however, the program was discontinued. She is currently working on her Master of Education – Curriculum and Instruction Degree at SFU.

Shyanne is interested in being on Options Board of Directors as she sees this as being a way to contribute to a strong and diverse community. She notes that young people's voices are often under represented in health and social services and hopes to provide insight into supporting vulnerable young people.
